

GEORGIA GOSSIP.

SHORT TALKS WITH THE SCRIBES OF THE COUNTRY PRESS.

Taylor County's Prosperity—Robbery in Warren County—Accident to an Upright County Lady—Shipments of Peaches from Georgia—Other Items of Interest.

There is a fatal disease among the cattle in southwest Georgia.

Taylor county shows an increase of over $100,000 in the tax returns of the present year.

Nayville, having a population of about two hundred, is to have fifteen weddings within the next two weeks.

The Albany news says the Hebrews of that city are evidently warring with some very big question in the city, and some of the members are so much excited over it that they cannot refrain from arguing the question on the streets. They tell me that out of school, however, and nobody but themselves know what they are quarreling about.

There were seven prisoners among the Georgia chieftains on their recent excursion to Baltimore.

Barke county has hopes to make a $2,000 bale cotton crop. A good crop is assured.

Thomsonville has shipped 1,000 crates of Le Conte peaches this season. Prices range from $2 to $4 per crate.

Cochran was thrown into considerable excitement on Saturday afternoon by a telegram to the effect that Mr. Joe Manning, of McVie, formerly of this place, had unwittingly poisoned himself by taking morphine through mistake for quinine. The case was considered by his medical attendants as very critical.

Mayville Georgian: There was quite a funny occurrence in the city just before commencement. Mr. Lester, a well known citizen, was called to the stand, was expecting a number of friends to visit him during commencement, and wished to entertain them in style, and as there was to be a very large picnic school at auction, he came there to buy it, and the auctioneer, who was a very large horse, rigged them up in fine harness, hitched them up to the carriage and started for home. It was quite a comical looking sight, but the driver was not reached until he came to the high hill on which the school was to be held. The horse refused to go, and the driver, who was a very large horse, got him down, and he came to the high hill on which the school was to be held. The horse refused to go, and the driver, who was a very large horse, got him down, and he came to the high hill on which the school was to be held.

Warrenton is the place appointed for the next annual reunion of the McVie Rifles.

From every direction, says the Rome Bulletin, very flattering news is received of the healthy and flattering condition of crops. It is said that the recent rains are amply sufficient to insure an abundant yield of corn, both early and late planting, cotton is said to be in very promising condition.

Warrenton Clipper: Mr. Asa Dennis, while on his way to Mountain camp ground last Thursday morning, noticed a case of his dog lying on the fence near Hart's creek bridge. Thinking it belonged to some one, he went to see it, and found it was his own dog. He was very much surprised, and on returning the next day, however, he found the dog still hanging where he had found it the day before. Flattered by curiosity he dismounted, and examined it. To his astonishment he found it was his own dog. He was very much surprised, and on returning the next day, however, he found the dog still hanging where he had found it the day before.

Clarksville Advertiser says: A difficulty on the 26th ult., between Mr. O. J. Reynolds, county treasurer, and Mr. Austin resulted in Austin cutting Reynolds with a knife on his right shoulder. Reynolds is attending to a dangerous one, and Mr. Reynolds is attending to his official duties. It is said that Austin was intoxicated, so you see another trouble brought about by the use of whiskey that would not otherwise have occurred. These things are committed and investigated them thoroughly, and you will find that the use of intoxicating liquors have been the prime cause; then, why not abolish the traffic in the accused stuff.

Joe Woodward and Allen Shirley, of Habersham, were committed to jail last week, charged with stealing cattle in the woods. They were conveyed to Gainesville Wednesday for safe keeping until court, our old jail here being unsafe.

Walton News: Mr. O. W. Smith discovered that his store had been robbed of considerable money, and made the fact known to our citizens. A few nights ago a negro, who was a very large horse, got him down, and he came to the high hill on which the school was to be held. The horse refused to go, and the driver, who was a very large horse, got him down, and he came to the high hill on which the school was to be held.

A gentleman writing from Flint river factory, in Upson county, says: "We had quite a serious accident to occur here a few days ago. A lady named Miss Upchurch had her third finger on her right hand caught on the shafting of a drawing frame, and the cotton wrapping around it, threw the finger out with the leaders up to the elbow. We thought at first that amputation would be necessary, but she is now getting on remarkably well, and her arm is about healed up."

Columbus Enquirer: The Young Men's Christian association held a meeting last night at which a committee was appointed to raise money for the purchase of a new building. The chairman was instructed to appoint a committee of one from each church to solicit contributions to the fund for purchasing furniture and reading for the rooms. The chairman appointed the following as such committee: St. Paul, Dr. P. Banks, chairman; First Baptist, Dr. E. Thomas, Jr.; Second Baptist, Dr. H. B. Harris; the above committee is requested to report to the association at the next meeting. The committee is requested to report to the association at the next meeting.

Young men will read the news themselves, and only ask their friends to aid them in furnishing them. They should be encouraged in this praiseworthy step.

Saturday afternoon, during the storm, lightning struck one of the houses back of Captain Beck's place, on College Hill, in America. It went down the chimney under the house, killing three of her chickens and setting fire to the house. The fire was soon put out. The house was occupied by negroes, a few of the occupants being considerably stunned.

American Recorder: On Monday morning as Captain C. W. Felder was going to his plantation, about nine miles south of Americus, he had a negro man meet him and asked him to pull down a ladder for him. The negro refused on account of the death of a woman who had been killed by lightning. The man was told, and they are peculiar enough for repetition. Saturday the negro was with him, and took him to his plantation, where he was killed by lightning. Monday morning he was with him, and took him to his plantation, where he was killed by lightning.

The American Recorder, under the head of "High life among the colored people," gives the following elaborate article:

J. A. Smith, a Gainesville, Ga., merchant says:

"For years I was a victim to the combined effects of dyspepsia and an aggravated type of eczema that baffled all medical skill. I consulted the very best physicians in the United States to no good purpose. I gave every patent medicine that was recommended a faithful trial and received no benefit. I took large quantities of cod liver oil and found it did me no good. At last I began to consider my case hopeless. I commenced taking S. S. Smith's pills, and in a short time I was cured. I waited a year after a cure was effected, and continued to take Smith's specific until, by accident, I wrote this history of my case for the complete. My skin is now as smooth as it was when a boy.

ATLANTA, AUGUST 8, 1884.

INDICATIONS at 1 a. m. for the South Atlantic states: partly cloudy weather, occasional rains, nearly stationary temperature, variable winds, generally from east to west.

The third congressional district of Georgia has endorsed the services of Judge Criss by giving him another term in Washington. The fourth district returns to public life its former representative, Hon. Henry H. Harris.

In the announcement of Steve Elkins' junketings in West Virginia, the additional fact is invariably stated that abundant funds have been promised. The commercial feature of republicanism is its most prominent point.

The New Orleans postoffice, according to the report of the commission, appointed to investigate it, is a nice rat hole, which aptly illustrates republican civil service methods. The postmaster's son seems to have been a much "bigger" man than his father, and the celebrated M. A. Dauphin had a private lock box of his own.

J. G. B.

KEIFER is going to show his disgust for his Ohio constituency by leaving them and taking his abode in Washington. At the latter place he will do just what he has been doing since he first went there to congress—lobby. The only difference will be that he formerly did so as member and speaker, and in future will do so as Mr. J. Warner Keifer, lobbyist.

BILL CHANDLER wants to be a senator. If there is anything in the shape of an office that Chandler hasn't wanted for the last thirty years, it is unknown. But Chandler should be a senator; so should Robeson. It will only take a few such as these to make our navy brittle. Mr. Chandler is one of the few campaign managers who are known to fame.

It is seldom that so much interest is centered in one event as was yesterday in the match game of base ball between the Atlanta and the Stars, in Columbus. When the last bulletin announced that there had been no change in the score since the second inning, and that the final score stood two to four in favor of the Stars, there was a little feeling of disappointment, which soon gave way when the magnificent record of the game was considered. Atlanta felt proud of the work of her boys, and everybody believes that they will lead the game both to-day and to-morrow. Mr. C. A. Collier, who went with the party, telegraphed last night: "The boys played a magnificent game, but were unable to recover from the effects of a few slight errors in the first inning."

THE GEORGIA BAR ASSOCIATION. The Georgia Bar association, as we are advised by Mr. W. B. Hill, the secretary, will hold its first annual meeting in this city next Wednesday and Thursday, the 13th and 14th of August. The association was organized on the 1st of August, 1883. The meeting at which this organization was effected assembled under a call addressed to the Georgia members of the American Bar association by Colonel L. N. Whittle, the vice-president of that association. Colonel Whittle could not be present at the meeting but General A. R. Lawton, president of the Georgia Bar association, stated that the purpose of those who had forwarded the meeting was to organize a state bar association in Georgia. He also stated that it had come to his knowledge that Georgia was the only one of the original thirteen states, and one of the few states in the union, which were without such an organization.

The plan met the warm approval of the members of the bar present, and an organization was promptly effected, with L. N. Whittle, president, and Charles C. Jones, Jr., Henry Jackson, M. H. Blanford, Pope Barrow and George A. Mercer, vice-presidents. Clifford Anderson, George N. Lester, Marshall J. Clark and Robert Whittier were elected an executive committee, and W. B. Hill was elected secretary and treasurer and ex-officio member of the executive committee.

The constitution would be glad to see every lawyer in the state take a personal interest in the Bar association of Georgia. It is an organization that is calculated to accomplish great good in various directions. The association was organized a year ago and fifty members and a few hundred and fifty. The object of the association is to advance the science of jurisprudence, promote the administration of justice throughout the state, uphold the honor of the profession of the law, or to establish cordial intercourse among the members of the bar of Georgia. The association has four standing committees, namely, on Jurisprudence and Law Reform, on Judicial Administration and Remedial Procedure, on Legal Education and Admission to the Bar, and on Grievances. The committee on Jurisprudence and Law Reform is charged with the duty of attention to all proposed changes in the law, and of recommending such as in their opinion may be entitled to the favorable consideration of the association. The committee on Judicial Administration and Remedial Procedure is charged with the duty of observing the working of our judicial system, the collection of information, the entertainment and examination of projects for change or reform in the system, and of recommending to the association from time to time such action as they may deem expedient. It is made the duty of both of the committees just named to invite suggestions on the topics confided to their charge from all the members of the association, and if they see it, from all the lawyers of the state. Where the reports of these two committees recommend changes in legislation, the association may appoint either the same or other committees to bring such matters properly to the attention of the general assembly.

It is the duty of the committee on Legal Education and Admission to the Bar to examine and report what changes it is expedient to propose in the system and mode of legal education and of admission to the practice of the profession in the state of Georgia. It is the duty of the committee on Grievances to hear all complaints that may be made in matters affecting the interest of the legal profession and the administration of justice, and to report the same to the association with such recommendations as they may deem advisable.

In describing the object of the association and the duties of its committees, we have quoted freely from the constitution, and by laws in order that our readers might have an opportunity of judging for themselves of the worth and importance of the ends which the Bar association of Georgia has in view. The organization is in good hands, and if its plans are carried out the association will accomplish great good.

At the annual meetings the programme will consist of addresses and papers of vital interest to the profession and the public. These papers, together with the reports of the standing committees, will elicit discussions, which, as we are informed by the secretary, will be stenographically reported, and the entire proceedings will be published each year and distributed to members without further charge than their annual dues.

THE CONSTITUTION ardently hopes that the first annual meeting of the association will result in arousing every member of the profession in the state to the importance of promoting and sustaining not only the association, but the objects which the association has in view.

A STRANGE CASE. The clerk who yields to a speculative craze and surreptitiously borrows the funds of his employer for a temporary investment, is a familiar figure in the business world. So many men have fallen victims to futures and stock gambling that the speculative defaulter is no longer regarded as a moral monstrosity. He is looked upon as a man of good intentions and irregular methods, and his disastrous exposure is charged to "circumstances over which he had no control."

The haste to accumulate wealth is characteristic of the average American, and it is natural that in such a race the means employed to secure the result should sometimes overstep the border line of honesty. Men of a speculative turn of mind fully understand the dangers of the situation, and when one of their competitors goes to the wall they instinctively sympathize with him.

But one of the latest defalcations is of such a peculiar nature that it deserves to be singled out from the common herd of ordinary embezzlements. The case referred to is that of Mr. Henry C. Pedler, lately the confidential business manager of the New York dry goods houses of Arnold, Constable & Co. That Mr. Pedler misused the money of his employers with his "eye" did not create much astonishment when the revelation came, but when it was ascertained that he was not the subject of any speculative mania, but simply appropriated the money of others in order to live in style and win for himself a literary reputation, his crookedness at once became a nine days' wonder. Mr. Pedler wanted fine houses and fast horses. He wanted a $50,000 interest in the Manhattan Magazine. He made himself the possessor of all this coveted property, and paid for it with Arnold & Constable's funds. Papers on "Booth" and "Hamlet" appeared under his name and were highly praised. A life of Grant also came out, purporting to be from his gifted pen. These literary productions, it seems, were, like the houses and horses, unwillingly paid for by Arnold, Constable & Co. The whole truth came out when Pedler's pecuniary affairs were discovered, and then there was another uproar. People who could understand how a man could embezzle in order to live in luxurious ease were totally unable to fathom the moral depravity of the man who bought the brains of others with stolen money to peddle as his own.

The case of Pedler is so peculiar that the man's sanity will rest under suspicion. It is possible that he is a crank, but it is plain that such cranks are dangerous men to be at large. In the midst of all this confusion, however, thinking men will jump to the conclusion that the proprietors of large interests would do well to keep their eyes wide open, and not allow their business managers too wide a range.

Is there any virtue in a rabbit foot? Grover Cleveland will be the next president of the United States. About a month ago it occurred to the editor of the Enquirer, Ala., Daily Mail that only one thing was needed to make the democratic campaign an assured success. Under the inspiration of the moment he advertised for a rabbit foot, and in a few days received one from Atlanta with the statement that it was the left hind foot of a graveyard rabbit shot on the grave of Jesse James at St. Joseph, Mo. A local jeweler mounted the rabbit foot in solid silver, with the inscription: "To our next president, a talisman of victory." The trinket was then presented to Governor Cleveland with a history of the rabbit foot and its traditions. Governor Cleveland is a level-headed man, and the very day he received the gift of his Enquirer friends he sat down and wrote a handsome letter of acknowledgment, in which he said: "I thank you for the gift, and am ready to confess that such a thing, with such a history, ought to accomplish great results."

A letter from Enquirer to the New Orleans Times-Democrat says that when the southern negroes become aware of the fact that Governor Cleveland "kissed a rabbit foot," they will vote for him in spite of persuasion, threats and bribes. The average southern democrat holds the rabbit foot in supreme reverence, as possessing a mysterious power for good to its owner and evil to his enemies.

In Georgia, the sheep raisers will have to retire before the dog-raisers.

Will Editor Charles Emory Smith kindly take up Logan's anti-negro career and explain it?

GEORGE ALFRED TOWNSEND'S editorial in favor of Blaine on the first page of the Cincinnati Enquirer are rather more fluent and conspicuous than Editor McLean's paragraphs on the fourth page. We like impartiality, but the Enquirer is most too impartial for good luck.

JOHN KELLY has a pretty little daughter at Saratoga. Well, bless the little girl, but dog on John.

THE New York Star says: "This campaign has shown that even the most able demagogue cannot always drag their followers after them." This is true, John Kelly is not "the most able demagogue leader," but even if he was, it is to be doubted whether he could drag the honest voters of Tammany to oppose Cleveland.

Good heavens! Cincinnati is to have another "industrial exposition." This makes the twenty-fifth this year.

MR. GEORGE W. CARL has undoubtedly won his way in literature by sheer merit, and the southern people are proud of his success, but some of his advanced views are not favorably received by his friends and neighbors. The New Orleans Picayune is disposed to criticize the remarkable pamphlet with which Mr. Cable preaches progress to the most thoughtful and creditable men of this section. The novelist has made the impression upon the public mind that African slavery, in his opinion, was not only in itself and in its effects entirely evil, but that southern civilization owes still further concessions to the negro race. Now this view of the situation will not go down with many people. Slavery was a means of progress so far as the elevation of the negro race was concerned, and the newly made freemen have been pushed forward too rapidly for their own good. Mr. Cable in holding up his side of the argument manifests too much of the extreme zeal of a new convert. Undoubtedly he has a perfect right to accept the New England idea of progress and civilization, but he should keep pace with them and not wed himself to prejudices which even the New Englanders are getting rid of as fast as they can. It is possible for a southerner to be progressive without going over bag and baggage to the enemy.

"WAX" the president desires to be alone, he can be so," says Editor Ab. Pulitzer of the New York Morning Journal. And yet if it were true, what would become of the cocktail mixer? What would become of Franklin B. Hixon? What would become of Bill Chandler?

THE prohibitionists are smiling gaily because the Blaine organs are afraid of them. It requires a high order of statesmanship to be a good baseball pitcher.

RAY BUTLER'S platform: "How are you, Charles?"

Tax Southern exposition at Louisville, this fall, desires to make an exhibit of confederate and federal relics of the late war. Messrs. E. J. McDonald, D. W. Sanders and John S. Jackson have been appointed on the confederate committee, and Messrs. Thomas A. Speed, R. M. Kelly and John Mason Brown will represent the federals. The circulars state that:
